One-page invitations also consist of two parts: the ANTO visual (image, hashtag, headline, logo, URL) and space for the invitation below.

Place short invitation texts as text part in a white box at 90% opacity. The box is placed onto the visual with a space to the format edge, so that it joins both parts. The typography follows ANTO's corporate design.

With longer text, divide the page in the middle. The lower part is 100% white and offers space for all the necessary information. If this space is still insufficient, design the invitation to cover several pages.
